Dear FTA Member:

We are actively soliciting materials for the first few issues of the Journal of Financial Therapy. We would particularly like to receive materials from practitioners and researchers on the following topics:

- ✓ Pre- and post-test analyses of financial therapy and counseling methods
- ✓ Experimental tests showing the effectiveness of financial education in changing both attitudes and behaviors
- ✓ Financial therapy trends
- ✓ Regulation of financial therapy
- ✓ Ethical issues associated with financial therapy
- ✓ Practice management techniques
- ✓ Client assessment and management procedures
- ✓ Employee counseling and therapy
- ✓ Financial therapy research methodological and statistical procedures
- ✓ Book reviews and letters

If you would like to submit a paper please focus on applications for practice.

We would very much like to receive materials from practitioners related to practice management, counseling techniques, the use of technology, and other topics specifically applicable to those in the field. Short manuscripts are strongly encouraged.

Our intent is to have the first issue of the Journal complete by early fall 2010. Please send your submissions by June 15, 2010. If you have a question about whether your idea would be appropriate for publication send a note via email to John Grable: jgrable@ksu.edu.
